Map of our Initial Proposals - Scotland

Map of our Initial Proposals - Central Scotland

Introduction

1. We are the Boundary Commission for Scotland, an independent, non-political body whose purpose is to make recommendations for Scottish Parliament boundaries and UK Parliament constituencies in Scotland.
2. We are tasked by the Parliamentary Constituencies Act 1986 (as amended) to undertake a review of UK Parliament constituencies in Scotland, and we must submit to the Secretary of State for Scotland a report containing our recommendations for 53 Scottish constituencies before 1 October 2018.
3. This booklet contains our Initial Proposals for these constituencies, information on how to participate in our public consultation from 20 October 2016 to 11 January 2017 and details of our Public Hearings to be held throughout Scotland between 24 November and 7 December 2016.

The 2018 Review

4. The review which is being conducted simultaneously by the four UK Parliamentary Boundary Commissions, will result in a UK Parliament elected from 600 constituencies in place of the current 650, and in 53 constituencies in Scotland in place of the current 59.
 - The legislation defines 2 constituencies in Scotland: Na h-Eileanan an Iar constituency and Orkney and Shetland constituency.
 - The electorate of every other constituency in Scotland must be between 71,031 and 78,507 electors, i.e. within 5% of the UK-wide electoral quota of 74,769, unless its area exceeds 12,000 square kilometres.
 - No constituency may exceed 13,000 square kilometres.
5. In 2011 we commenced our Sixth Review of UK Parliament Constituencies. Parliament amended the legislation governing the review in January 2013, and as a result we stopped work on the Review and did not complete it.
6. We commenced the current review on 24 February 2016. We are now consulting the public on our Initial Proposals. Details of how to participate in the consultation are given below. We may produce Revised Proposals during 2017, and expect to make our final recommendations for constituencies in 2018.
7. For each constituency, we must recommend a name and its designation as a burgh constituency or a county constituency.
8. For further information on the policies and procedures we have adopted to underpin this review and the legal requirements for constituency design, please refer to our Policies and Procedures booklet, which is available on our website.

Our Initial Proposals

9. We have developed our Initial Proposals using electorate data from 1 December 2015. The number of electors registered in each council electoral ward on that date can be found on our website.
10. Because of the constraints on constituency design it has not been possible to construct all constituencies from complete electoral wards. Where we have had to divide a ward between constituencies we have, in most instances, followed community council boundaries or other recognisable boundaries. There are 323 whole wards and 30 wards divided between constituencies in our proposals: 40 constituencies contain 1 or more part-wards.
11. 35 constituencies are each contained within a single council area. The remaining 18 comprise parts of 2 council areas.

12. Our Initial Proposals are summarised in Table 1. Maps of each constituency can be found in Appendix A. The proposed constituencies and their constituent wards in each council area are listed in Appendix B.

Public consultation on our Initial Proposals

13. The public consultation on our Initial Proposals runs from 20 October 2016 until 11 January 2017. During the consultation period we display our proposals at Display Points, where members of the public can inspect them and find out how to participate in the consultation. There is one Display Point in each proposed constituency; details are available on our website. Display materials are also available to view on our website.
14. You can tell us what you think of our proposals by leaving a comment on our interactive consultation portal. You can view the boundaries of our Initial Proposals and search constituencies by postcode or council area. You can compare our Initial Proposals with the existing constituency boundaries, as well as other boundaries. Maps of each constituency and further information will also be available to download. The consultation portal can be viewed here: www.bcs2018.org.uk.
15. As part of the consultation process, we will hold Public Hearings in Ayr, Dundee, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Inverness, between 24 November 2016 and 7 December 2016. Further information can be found in Table 2.

Table 2 – Public Hearings

16. The venue and start time of each Public Hearing will be published on our website.

17. Each Public Hearing will be chaired by a Sheriff Principal appointed by us. At each hearing, we will explain our proposals and will allow comments from anyone with an interest.
18. The order of business for each Public Hearing will be determined at the start of proceedings. Those who wish to make a statement at a Public Hearing are invited to contact the Secretariat to the Commission in advance of the hearing by email: bcs@scottishboundaries.gov.uk or by telephone: 0131 244 2001.
19. While each Public Hearing will primarily focus on a particular geographical area, comments can be made on any aspect of our Initial Proposals at any of the Public Hearings.
20. Transcripts of the Public Hearings will be available to view on our website and consultation portal during the secondary consultation.
21. We welcome all comments on our proposals, whether in support or not, to help inform our deliberations. Comments can be made in the following ways:

Consultation portal	www.bcs2018.org.uk
in writing to:	Boundary Commission for Scotland Thistle House 91 Haymarket Terrace Edinburgh EH12 5HD
by email to:	comments@scottishboundaries.gov.uk
in person:	At our Public Hearings in November and December 2016.

22. Where comments contain objections to our proposals, it would be helpful if they were accompanied by an alternative proposal that takes account of statutory requirements and considers the consequences on the wider area. In any event, comments will be weighted by the quality of argument and the evidence provided. We do not accept comments via social media.

Further Stages

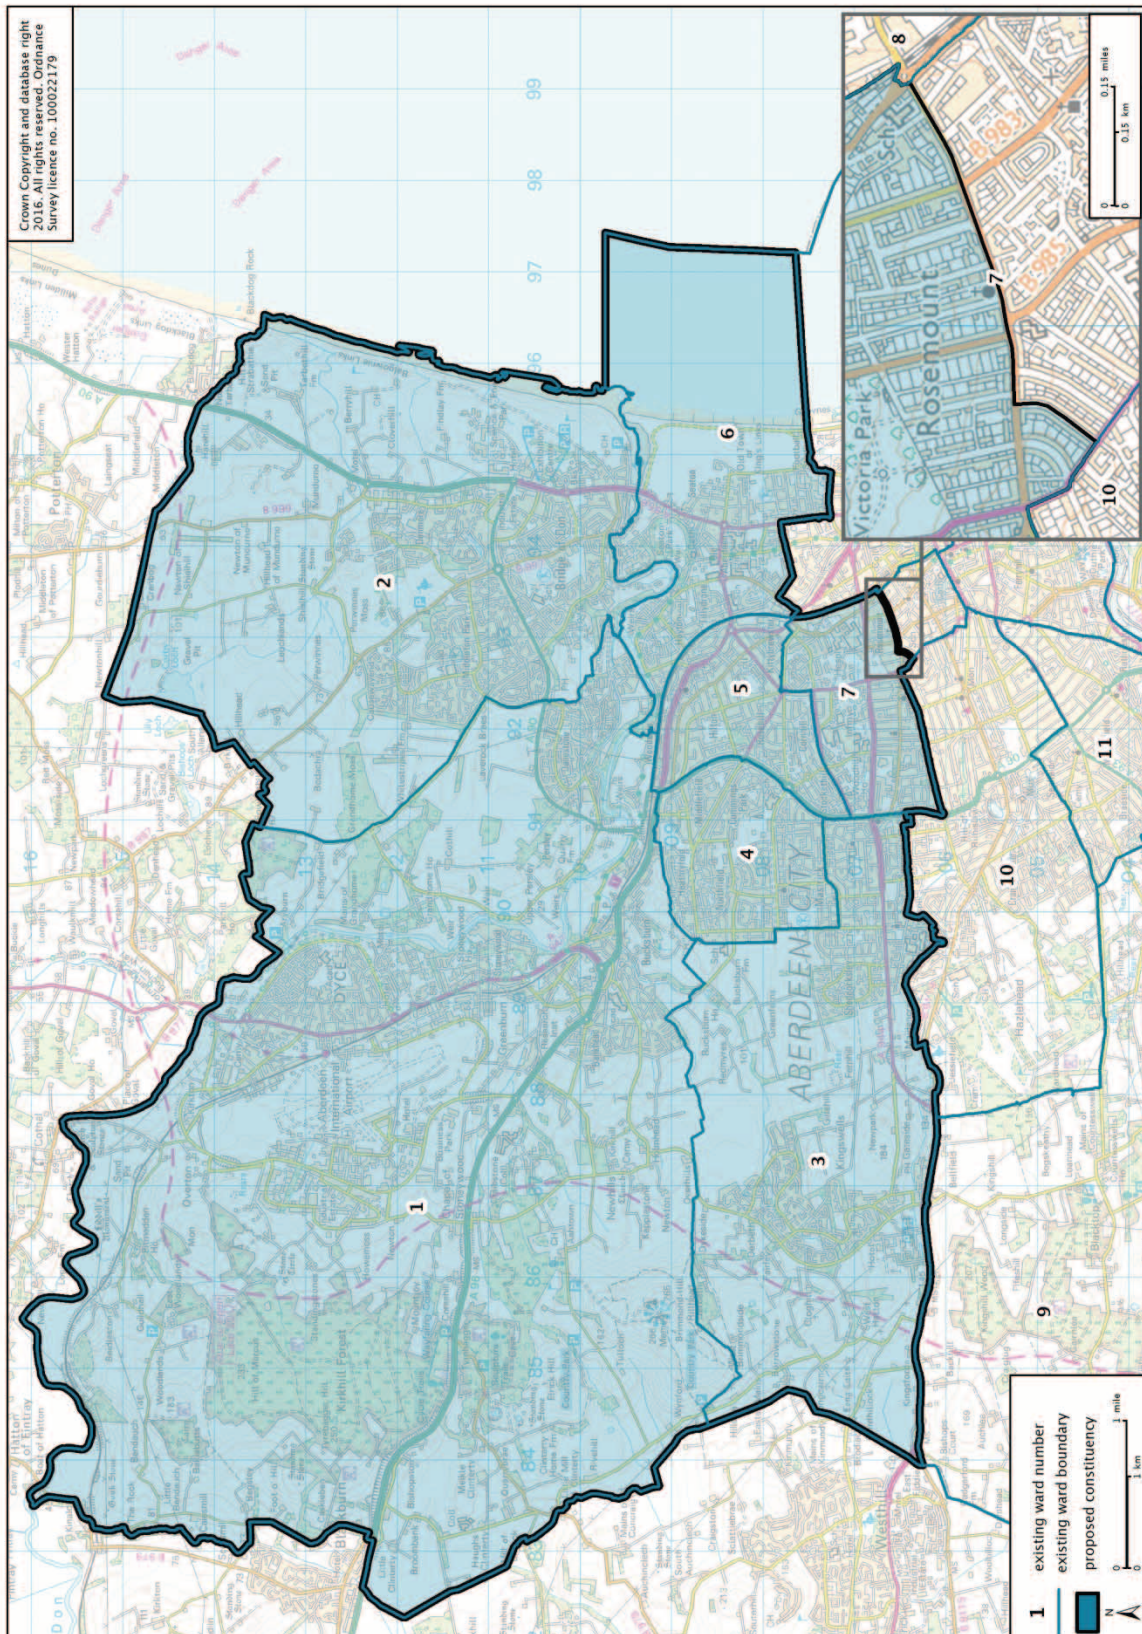

23. After the consultation period on our Initial Proposals, we will publish all comments received, and the transcripts of the Public Hearings, on our website. We will then hold a further 4 week secondary consultation period, when you will be able to submit comments to us on any of that material. All comments will be redacted prior to publication in accordance with our privacy policy.
24. After the secondary consultation period, we will consider all the evidence we have received. If we decide to alter our Initial Proposals, we will publish the resulting Revised Proposals for an 8 week public consultation period during 2017.
25. After the consultation period on our Revised Proposals, we will develop our Final Recommendations which we will submit in our report to the Secretary of State.
