Comment Reasons:

Comment:As I understand it the proposal will cost an additional £50m to build on the new site v building on existing site. I see no reasonable reason why the school cannot be built on existing site. If the costs were neutral for building on existing v new I would have no strong views on where it was built. The reason cited for not building on the existing site was that it would block light to neighbouring properties! I was told by the council that a tree which blocks light to my home cannot be reduced in height even though it is accepted the wrong type of tree was planted and should never have grown to that height. I am not entitled to to light so cannot understand why this is being cited as a reason for not building on existing site. There is no dispute that a new school is required however expecting council tax payers to fund the £50m excess is unacceptable.
