I think the school should use the original site ,build on the pitches and make new pitches when the old school is demolished . similar to Christon school. If the school is built upwards instead of outwards and had 3 or more stories to accommodate the size requirement . it would fit on the existing site

I feel the council was determined to move to the new site (valuable green space) NOMATTER WHAT

The proposed site was contaminated land then magical it was not ? I am sceptical .

The objections are :

Greenspace

Loss of greenspace amenity (much larger and centrally located than the LA site) .

If you build on all greenspace it will become like London , just one continuous spiralling mass with no boundaries , this is the direction of travel .

Traffic - parents wont use the entrance opposite Aldi. they will drop off on all the side streets and adjacent to the old railway line causing congestion (road signs wont make any difference in the real world people ignore what doesn't suit them .)

Its further from the railway station so more car journeys from people out with the district ?

Local need

If you build a big enough school you will be able to fill it with children for miles around out with the council location . If you build a school for the local community and restrict access to locals on the grounds its not big enough then you don't need something of epic proportions .

I strongly object to this application , I have attended all the planning events held to win us over ,each time i got the feeling the decision had been made already and it was a PR exercise rather than a listening opportunity .
